

Am I a Good Candidate for Rhinoplasty?

Unhappy with the shape of your nose? Difficulty breathing through your nose? Nose ever broken? You may be a good candidate for rhinoplasty if the appearance or function of your nose makes you self conscious or unhappy. Even slight changes to the shape of the nose can have a dramatic effect on appearance and can change how people interact with you. Rhinoplasty can reshape deformities, reshape changes from injury or aging, and restore balance between the nose and the face.

Consider Brachioplasty (arm lift), Thigh Lift or Liposuction. Always wanted larger breasts? Consider Breast Augmentation. We also do Mastopexy (breast lift) and Breast Reduction. Does your face make you look older than you are? Blepharoplasty (eyelid rejuvenation) gives dramatic results with minimal down time and virtually invisible scars. For more improvement, consider a Mini- or Full Facelift, Brow Lift, or Neck Rejuvenation. Hate the lump on your nose? A Rhinoplasty (nose reshaping) can correct it.

What Is Rhinoplasty?

Rhinoplasty, the formal term for surgery that reshapes the nose, is one of the most common surgical procedures. The nose is the most defining feature of the face. It is centrally located on the face and it is one of the first things that people notice. The nose is composed of skin, bone and cartilage. Five cartilaginous structures and the nasal bones come together to form the structure of the nose. Skin and soft tissue then drape over this triangular structure. Rhinoplasty involves manipulating the bony, cartilaginous, and soft tissue elements to improve breathing, straighten the nose and air passages, and enhance the aesthetic appearance of the nose.

Rhinoplasty is one of the most demanding surgical procedures and is one of the specialties undertaken at Amerejuve Surgical Associates. Successful rhinoplasty requires the surgeon to take into account every variable such as skin color, skin texture, overall facial shape, ethnic considerations, and facial bone structure to name just a few. All of these considerations, a complete physical exam, and a consultation to discuss the patient's desires and aesthetic norms are all part of the initial consultation.

Rhinoplasty Results

Rhinoplasty surgery can be used to correct a number of aesthetic flaws. The surgery can result in a greater balance of facial features, the elimination of bumps or unevenness, and a noticeable change in the size of the nose. In order to achieve ideal results, however, it is important for patients to be completely candid with their surgeon prior to surgery.

In the initial surgical consultation, patients should discuss their specific needs and aesthetic goals in order to assure that these goals are realistic and attainable. Your surgeon will evaluate the current form of your nose in order to determine which changes are realistic. Fortunately, even small changes-millimeters added, subtracted, or shifted- can have major, positive effects on your overall appearance.

How Will I Feel After Surgery?

Rhinoplasty is unique in that the final results of the surgery can take up to one full year to develop. Side effects such as swelling and bruising around the nose and eyes can hinder the appearance of the nose for the first two to three weeks. While subtle changes may be visible in the first weeks following surgery, most individuals will notice the biggest improvements in the months to come as your nose will begin to settle in to its final shape.
